Web programming problem set 1

1. In web development/programming, what is the difference between static and dynamic content?
2. How does one go about creating static content?
3. How does one go about creating dynamic content?